Scholarship Policies and Practices

KeMUDA Scholarship students at Kenya Methodist University are selected by the university's Scholarship Committee. Generally, scholarships are for 80% of tuition and fees. KeMUDA Executive Director and Liaison Officer, Dr. Tom Albright, works with the Scholarship Committee and scholarship students to account for each scholarship. Funds are transmitted to KeMU which applies them directly to each recipient's account at the University. Scholarships are granted for bachelor's degrees, however, scholarships have been granted for medical and clinical officer students.

KeMUDA does function as a vehicle for persons to sponsor students of their choice at KeMU. Funds are transmitted directly to student accounts

What is KeMUDA?

The Kenya Methodist University Development Association is a 401(c)3 nonprofit created to support the development of Kenya Methodist University. KeMUDA has supported capital development, curriculum resources, library material, scientific instruments, and, in recent years, focused scholarships for students for baccalaureate degrees.

Help Change Kenya and East Africa by bringing the gift that gives and gives back...Higher Education

Education in Africa

The hunger for education in Kenya and East Africa is deep and persistent. Despite the struggles in the region, Kenya and its people are determined to bring the resources needed to become a stable, economically successful nation. Education is valued and sought as the key to individual success and regional development.

Kenya Methodist University

Kenya Methodist University celebrated its 14th graduating class in 2015. In less than 20 years it has grown to a vital institution granting over 3,300 degrees a year, including PhD's. It is a science and technology University created by the church to provide the knowledge needed for development with Christian values. As Christian university, it serves students of all faiths and from over a dozen nations. With over 9,000 students on six campuses around Kenya, KeMU is a creative leader in private higher education in Africa.

While there is a rapidly emerging middle class in Kenya who can afford the fees which a private university must charge, there are many deserving students who simply cannot afford to attend university. KeMUDA Scholarships are the main resource at KeMU which supports deserving students who otherwise would never be able to attend or continue college because of lack of ability to pay the tuition fees.

Two KeMUDA Scholarship Students

Nsengu Albert Muremyi Agriculture

Albert is a refugee from Rwanda whose mother worked hard and with the help of his local church, got Albert enrolled at KeMU. He has flourished as a leader on campus, serving as the Student Body President and a leader in the campus' Christian Fellowship. He graduated in July of 2015 with his degree in Agriculture with the dream of getting a graduate degree and working to bring food security to Africa and work with the United Nations on behalf of refugees of his part of the world.

Kanyaro Gacheri Enyasia Medicine

Kanyaro decided that she wanted to be an orthopedic surgeon after witnessing a child's broken leg which went untreated. Coming from a poor family she finished high with fees of $25 owing which her family could not pay. Because of her high achievement, she was granted her diploma and the chance at her dream. After excelling in high school, she came to the campus penniless and convinced KeMU leaders that she had the academic skills and desire to become a physician. She is in her second year of six years of studies and is doing well. KeMUDA is making her dream reality.
